Scientific Meeting on Health Claims

To improve the dialogue between claim applicants and EFSA, EFSA organised a “Scientific Meeting on Health Claims related to Gut and Immune Function” in Amsterdam on 2nd December. The goal of this meeting was to discuss the scientific requirements for substantiation of claims on gut and immune function. The discussion was based on the guidance document published previously by the NDA panel and the comments received on it during the web consultation. Not surprisingly Sensus not only had sent in comments on the guidance document but also was present during this important and well attended meeting together with over 200 representatives from food industry and academia (see <http://www.efsa.europa.eu/en/events/event/nda101202.htm> for more details).
